The Dayton Bujinkan Dojo teaches Bujinkan Budo Taijutsu martial arts for adults seven days a week and children twice a week. Training consists of striking, grappling, weapons use, multiple attack and escape/reversal methods via repetitious practice and principle-driven training through the study of nine distinct lineages taught collectively as Bujinkan Budo Taijutsu.

The Dayton Bujinkan Dojo has been teaching in the Dayton, Ohio area since 1997. As a Bujinkan Dojo, the school is licensed under the Bujinkan Hombu Shidoshi-Kai Association (International Bujinkan Headquarters in Japan). The dojo's current accommodations include 5500 square feet of space, 100+ tatami-style training mats, two changing & rest rooms, and striking targets & practice weapons for all participants.

Training costs are $65 a month for unlimited attendance, or $12 per class. Children classes are slightly less. The Dayton Bujinkan Dojo does not use any contracts or "student agreements". Students are responsible for their training and payments, but can come and go as they please.

Interested in trying class for you or your child? The Dayton Bujinkan Dojo accepts news students year round. If you are interested in trying classes, or for more information about the Dayton Bujinkan Dojo or Bujinkan Budo Taijutsu martial arts, please call (937) 436-0725 or visit www.daytonbujinkan.com.
